

LIBERAL/LIBERAL DEMOCRAT CANDIDATES in the SOUTH CENTRAL REGION 1945-2019

Constituencies in the counties of Berkshire, Buckinghamshire, Hampshire, Isle of Wight and Oxfordshire

INCLUDING SDP CANDIDATES in the GENERAL ELECTIONS of 1983 and 1987

PREFACE

As it covers one of the smaller regions, the South Central Directory has not been particularly demanding of time and effort in the process of compilation. The Party has a creditable record for contesting constituencies within the region, few having been left unfought for long intervals, even at lean times in its fortunes. Individuals appearing on the roster have been generally worthy, dependable, types rather than colourful characters or outstanding party personalities though there are several exceptions. Many candidates listed below have fought constituencies in other regions, a remarkably high figure in proportion to the number of constituencies in the region. In accordance with convention, the Party did not nominate a candidate in opposition to the Speaker at Buckingham at the General Elections of 2010, 2015 or 2017. By agreement with the Green Party the Liberal Democrats did not nominate a candidate for the Isle of Wight at the General Election of 2019, nor by a local agreement, at Beaconsfield, where the Liberal Democrats endorsed the former Conservative MP, Dominic Grieve, who stood as an Independent.

THE MARTELL PLAN

The Martell Plan, mentioned in passing throughout the regional directories was the electoral strategy adopted by the Liberal Party for the General Election of 1950. It was first named after Edward Martell qv (Greater London), a party 'grandee' of the immediate post-war years who advocated the nomination of over 150 additional candidates in constituencies which had little or no Liberal organization nor history of Liberal activity in recent years. Most were adopted less than two months before nomination day, many at the eleventh hour, Martell's objective being to increase the Liberal challenge to a level at which the party would be enabled to form a government, presuming enough MPs were elected.

Martell and his supporters, among them many younger party members including Jeremy Thorpe, Isaac Hyam qqv, believed that a steadily growing number of adoptions being announced in the media would create a momentum of its own in the minds of the electorate. Most of the constituencies involved were in urban areas of Greater London, the Northwest, Southeast, Scotland and the West Midland Regions, though other regions were involved to lesser degree. Quixotically, a considerable number of largely rural constituencies went uncontested where a Liberal candidate might have fared reasonably well, judging upon results obtained at the 1945 General Election. The final national tally of candidates, a fair proportion of them of dubious Liberal pedigree, was over 450. The party lost over 300 deposits, though without contemporary records of Liberal associations, or regional parties, covering the period, it is now impossible to differentiate technically between a 'Martell Plan Candidate' and a candidate, albeit in an unpromising constituency, adopted following more formal procedures, well in advance of nomination day. An enormous percentage of the Martell Plan candidates were among those to lose their deposits of £150, then set at 12 1/2% of votes cast. Fortunately, provision had been made for some measure of insurance cover with Lloyds in the City of London against this contingency.

The goal of fighting every mainland constituency in the UK was finally achieved 25 years later under the leadership of Jeremy Thorpe at the General Election of October 1974. The broad front was reduced, marginally, at the following election of 1979. In both 1983 and 1987 the Liberals and their allies, the SDP, each contested roughly 50% of the UK parliamentary constituencies, avoiding contests against each other save in a handful of cases. Since 1992 the Liberal Democrats have contested every constituency in mainland UK, save for that held by The Speaker and a handful of other instances, at every successive general election. In recent times party nominees who are nominated at the last minute in unpromising constituencies, simply to show the flag, have come to be termed 'paper candidates.' Virtually every candidate at recent general elections, however, has been approved by the party's parliamentary candidates' committee and adopted according to formal procedure.

The scale of defeat for the Liberal Party in the 1950 General Election, in which nine Liberal MPs were elected, was eclipsed by the debacle of 2015 when only eight of the previously held 57 constituencies returned a Liberal Democrat MP. No less than 340 of 631 deposits were forfeited, £170,000, at the current rate of £500, with the threshold at 5% of votes cast. No deposits had been lost by the party at the General Election of 2010. The party went on to lose a record total of 375 deposits at the General Election of 2017 totaling £175,500, again contesting virtually every constituency on the UK mainland. The corresponding total for the General Election of 2019 were 136 lost deposits amounting to £68,000.

He had chaired meetings in Oxford shortly before Munich crisis 1938 and the infamous Chamberlain agreement with Hitler. At this time he was a Liberal Party rising star, a protégée of the influential Lady Glen Coats qv (Scotland). He had already been adopted as PPC for Central Aberdeenshire, when the Oxford by-election was announced. He immediately declared himself available for selection as party candidate. He was subsequently persuaded to stand down (as was the Labour nominee, Patrick Gordon Walker) in favour of a distinguished University Don, Robert Lindsey, who stood as an independent. An aloof academic with no political experience, no aptitude for campaigning and a poor public speaker, Lindsey proved a disaster as a candidate, failing completely to harness wide-spread anti-Chamberlain feeling. Davies maintained for the rest of his life, whenever questioned on the subject, that had the Party stood its ground and proceeded with his nomination, he might have beaten the Conservative nominee, Quintin Hogg, in a straight fight. A powerful orator of the old school, using a rolling motion of his entire body to emphasize a point, he was one of the great characters of the party of a breed no longer encountered. He was always on the radical wing and post 1945, strongly anti-nuclear. He re-appeared on LPO Council 1960s. He was latterly much involved with local politics in Oxford MBC. His son became a Labour MP, his daughter a Liberal councillor. He died in Scotland in 1986. Central Aberdeenshire 1945, West Aberdeenshire 1950 (both Scotland), Oxford 1955, 1959, 1964
